

World Ocean Day

Southern Hemisphere Edition

What is World Ocean Day Southern Hemisphere Edition?

No matter where we live on our blue planet we are connected by one global ocean. As we near the halfway point for World Ocean Day in June, it also means it's nearly 8 December and a great time to celebrate World Ocean Day with the start to summer for those who live in the Southern Hemisphere!

We're always looking to create opportunities to help raise awareness about our ocean and what we can all do to help with solutions, and so after 20 years of globally coordinating World Ocean Day in June, last year we started organizing a celebration in December.

Here are some easy ways to get involved:

SUGGESTED POST 1

Happy #WorldOceanDay to those in the Southern Hemisphere!

As the South warms into summer, it's an ideal time to appreciate the one global ocean that makes up more than 70% of our blue planet and connects all of us."

Post your event at www.WorldOceanDay.org

Download

Download

SUGGESTED POST 2

Did you know that there's more than one day to celebrate #WorldOceanDay?

Exactly 6 months from 8 June, the Southern Hemisphere takes its turn to celebrate the ocean and everything it does to keep our climate healthy.

Learn more at www.WorldOceanDay.org

For 20 years, The Ocean Project has globally coordinated World Ocean Day as an opportunity to unite and rally the world on 8 June, and throughout the year, to take personal, community, and societal action on behalf of our blue planet.

One Ocean, One Climate, One Future – Together!

WorldOceanDay.org